

The other day, a $1 bill of the Sandusky Bank came into our possession, upon the back of which some wag of a specie currency man had written the following apostrophe:

"Thou art, at best, the ghost of cash.
The spirit of a specie dollar,
Thy paper fabric is but trash,
And all thy promises are hollow!
Begone! I fear that thou art breaking,
Thou art conditioned, ragged off!
Thy slight foundation may be shaken;
And now no clear thyself!"

We apprehend the latter injunction was superfluous. Such "ghosts" are easier laid than raised, in these iron times. You may call them from "the vasty deep," but if they condescend to come at all—which is rarely the case with us—they are but transient visitants, and not all of the same again class of spirits that bothered Macbeth. However, the writer is a wit and a wag and has hit the truth in the first lines of his stanza withal.

Waggery!—The Times Herald, a Van Buren paper, indulges in a sly hit at its Chief. "For once in their lives," says the Herald, "the political enemies of our present Executive must acknowledge that he has committed himself. Yes, he stands solemnly pledged to sustain the constitution of his country!"

This is excellent. It brings to mind a parallel case of comatual in Cayuga county, which our old Clintonian (but now Van Buren) friend, R. L. Smith, used to tell. A politician had balanced his opinions so well as to receive the nomination of both parties for Supervisor, and being equally certain that the candidate was their own man, a committee from each party was appointed to call upon the gentleman to settle the vexed question. Thus beset, the gentleman drew himself up and replied: "I acknowledge the right of the People to know the sentiments of those who are candidates for their favor. I am free to speak my mind on this subject—I am ready to avow my sentiments openly—and I do now openly and boldly avow myself in favor of the principles of the Declaration of Independence." It is so with Mr. Van Buren. He stands solemnly pledged to support the constitution of his country!—Alb. Jour.

"Is that clean butter?" said Mike to a countryman who had a wagon full of butter. "Guess it ought to be," replied the countryman—"it took the old woman and three of the boys all night to pick the hairs out on't."

BURLINGTON

FRIDAY MORNING, MARCH 24.

We ought perhaps to inform our readers that the late President has put his name to a document prepared by Kendall and Benton, purporting to be the "farewell address of Andrew Jackson." It is not of a character however to require republishing, as it is merely a repetition of his vetoes, protests, self glorification, and the fierce and bitter denunciations against men and things contained in his several messages. Its character will be readily inferred from the following apology the editors of the National Intelligencer deemed necessary for occupying their columns with it.

"We redeem a promise made to our readers by inserting in this journal the paper lately published as being the FAREWELL ADDRESS of the late PRESIDENT to the People of the U. STATES. If we had not promised it, we do not know that we should have assisted in multiplying copies of a Document, which is not in fact what it purports to be, because it is evidently not the production of the mind of him whose signature it bears. It reflects, indeed, the passions and feelings of Gen. Jackson; but, unfortunately, it reflects the bad ones as well as the good, and those who are most likely to pay any regard at all to the Address are the least likely to discriminate properly between what is good in it and what is bad. For ourselves, we believe in and respect all the fervent aspirations for the welfare of his country, and in the sincerity of the professions of patriotic devotion, which the Address imputes to Gen. Jackson. But we also believe in the sincerity of the vindictive disposition which it manifests on his part to the institutions he has been making war against, and to certain prominent statesmen whom he alludes to with sufficient distinctness. We wish that he had not recorded these as his last impressions, nor left them in trust to those who may be disposed to receive and hand down his sayings as the emanations of wisdom something more than human."

We publish to-day the correspondence between R. M. Whitney and the Bank of Burlington, as reported by the committee of investigation. We shall publish the whole report as soon as we can find room for it.

ROTATION.—The appointment of Mr. Lowry as Marshal, is certainly a very notable exemplification of the doctrine of rotation—that is, rotating out of one office into another. Fifteen years sheriff—seven years marshal—then sheriff (and embryo candidate for congress)—and now marshal again. One of two things results; either his claims are very preeminent, or else the party are somewhat deficient in material.

And here, as might be expected, there is some difference of opinion among those concerned, and not a little speculation as to the reasons for Mr. L.'s resignation in 1835, and his reappointment in 1837. On the one hand it is asserted that in 1835 he resolved to rotate into congress, and believing that the sheriffalty would furnish a better spring-plant for that purpose, appointed Mr. Barker a sort of trustee to hold the marshalship for him while he tried the experiment; but failing in his congressional aspirations, and not having accepted the appointment of sheriff again, the office has been promptly returned, according to contract. On the other hand it is alleged that the resignation in 1835 was bona fide on his part, and that his subsequent appointment is the result of necessity, as no other individual could be found in the party fully competent to discharge the duties of so important a trust. But whatever the true interpretation may be, all will admit, that, as an illustration of the rotary principle, it beats Blake and Stanley, all to nothing.

VIRGINIA.—The General Assembly have passed a law making the State elections to take place on the same day, in future, throughout the State. Members of Congress and of the General Assembly, will be chosen on the 4th Thursday of April next.

Wm. H. Rano, another of the Richest Coterie has been elected U. S. Senator from Virginia in place of R. E. Parker retorted into a better office.

The Rev. Horatio Potter, Rector of St. Peter's Church, Albany, has been unanimously elected to the Presidency of Washington College, in the place of the Rev. Dr. Wheaton, resigned.

MARRIED.
In Williston, on Monday last, by Rev. G. G. Rogers, Mr. EDWARD MATTHEWS to Miss ANNE FRENCH.
In Essex on the 19th inst. by J. T. Esq. Mr. Jeremiah Fisher Jr. to Miss Cassia New.

In Huntington on the 16th inst. by John Johnson Esq. Mr. Herman Remington to Mrs. Elvira Rolins.

DIED.
In this town on the 19th inst. Mr. LEVI CHAPIN aged 48.
In this town suddenly, on the 15th inst. FRANCES ANN, only daughter of Samuel Nichols, Esq. aged 6 years and 9 months.
In this town, on the 13th inst. Mrs. ELVIRA H. LYON, wife of Capt. Dan Lyon, aged 31 years. She bore her sickness with great calmness, and Christian patience, being perfectly resigned to the will of God, which she felt to be better. Resigned she bade this world adieu; Resigned we gave her up to God! Triumphant from this vale she flew A trophy of redeeming blood. Com.

Genuine Garden Seeds

RAISED for and put up by Joseph Brock & Co. (Successors to Geo. C. Barrett) at the seed establishment, connected with the New England Farmer Office, North Market St. Boston.

"The above seeds are of the crop of 1836 and of the very best quality, being raised by the most experienced growers expressly for the above establishment, except such sorts as will not ripen to advantage in this country which are imported from the first houses in Europe.

Aware of the great complaint that is hitherto existed with regard to seeds, and of the importance to the Farmer and Gardener of having such as can be relied upon, every effort has been made at this establishment to raise and vend such only as will give perfect satisfaction."

The subscribers have on hand and will certainly keep for sale at wholesale or retail, seeds from the above establishment, as agent for the proprietor.—Also

400 papers Ornamental Flower Seeds,
10 lbs Mangel Wurzel,
10 " Ruta Baga,
10 " Flax Turnip,
T. F. & W. L. STRONG.
